The FILIGREE BALL

"What has happened to my niece?" he cried, rising with an energy that displaced the great dog and sent him, with hanging head and trailing tail, to his own special sleeping place under the table. "Has she run upon a ghost in these dismal apartments? You interest me greatly. I did not think she would ever have the pluck to visit this house again after what happened at her wedding."

"She has had the pluck," I assured him, "and, what is more, she has had enough of it not only to re-enter the house, but to re-enter it alone. At least, such is the present inference. Had you been blessed with more curiosity and made more frequent use of the chair so conveniently placed for viewing the opposite house, you might have been

GIRL'S SECRET.

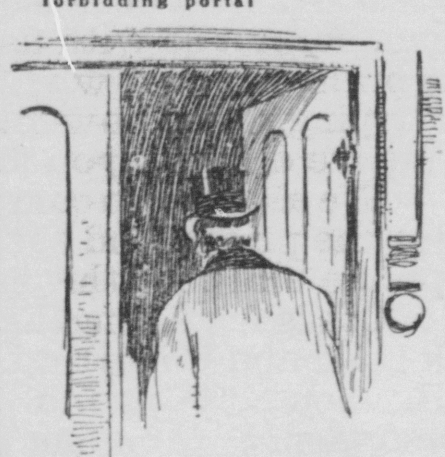

"Aunt Cassie came to visit us and she saw I was nervous, had the fidgets all the time, and she asked me many questions, and finally said, 'Why, you dear, sweet girl, it's not your temper that's bad, it's your constitution that's out of kilter. You sit right down now and write a letter to Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., tell him all your symptoms'—and so I did. It wasn't long before I had a long reply, carefully going over my case and telling me just what to do. I date my present happiness and little Cupid's return to the very day I sat down to write that letter to Dr. Pierce, for his advice was so good and his 'Favorite Prescription' worked such a complete change in me that now my former cheerfulness and good health—not to say anything of good looks—are restored to me. I have summoned Tom back to my side and we are to be married in June."

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Eclampsia, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure. It is natural that a woman who has been cured of womanly disease by 'Favorite Prescription' should believe that it will cure others. It is natural too that she should recommend to other women the medicine which has cured her. It is such commendation which has made the name of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a household word for the past thirty-eight years.

phatically continued. "In three years you will not know the house over yonder. Despite its fancied ghosts and death dealing fireplace, it will stand A1 in Washington. I, David Moore, promise you this, and I am not a man to utter fatuous prophecies. But I must be missed over there."

Here he gave the mastiff the long delayed kick. "Rudge, stay here! The vestibule opposite is icy. Besides, your howls are not wanted in those old walls tonight even if you would go with me, which I doubt. He has never been willing to cross to that side of the street," the old gentleman went on to complain, with his first show of irritation. "But he'll have to overcome that prejudice soon, even if I have to tear up the old hearthstone and reconstruct the walls. I can't live without Rudge, and I will not live in another place than in the old home of my ancestors."

Entering the forbidding portal

I was by this time following him out. "You have failed to answer the suggestion I made you a minute since," I hazarded. "Will you pardon me if I put it now as a question? Your niece, Mrs. Jeffrey, seemed to have everything in the world to make her happy, yet she took her life. Was there a taint of insanity in her blood, or was her nature so impulsive that her astonishing death in so revolting a place should awaken in you so little wonder?"

A gleam of what had made him more or less feared by the very urchins who dogged his steps and made sport of him at a respectful distance shot from his eye as he glowered back at me from the open door. But he hastily suppressed this sign of displeasure and replied with the faintest trace of sarcasm:

"There! You are expecting from me feelings which belong to youth or to men of much more heart than understanding. I tell you that I have no feelings. My niece may have developed insanity or she may simply have drunk her cup of pleasure dry at twenty-two and come to its dregs prematurely. I do not know and I do not care. What concerns me is that the responsibility of a large fortune has fallen upon me most unexpectedly and that I have pride enough to wish to show myself capable of sustaining the burden. Besides, they may be tempted to do some mischief to the walls or floors over there. The police respect no man's property. But I am determined they shall respect mine. No rappings up or tearings down will I allow unless I stand by to supervise the job. I am master of the old homestead now and I mean to show it. And with a last glance at the dog, who uttered the most mournful of protests in reply, he shut the front door and betook himself to the other side of the street."

As I noticed his assured bearing as he disappeared within the forbidding portal which, according to his own story, had for so long a time been shut against him, I asked myself if the candle which I had noticed lying on his mantelshelf was of the same make and size as those I had found in my late investigations in the house he was then entering.

A DELIBERATE ACT

Independent Investigation at Hull Makes It Look Dark For Russia.

DEED PREMEDITATED

It Is Alleged That the Baltic Fleet Fired on Fishermen Well-Known Who They Were.

Britons Are Chafing Under the Delay Imposed by Diplomatic Processes.

London, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Hull to the Times says that the correspondent, as the result of his investigation, is of the opinion that the attack on the British trawlers by the Russian second Pacific squadron was a deliberate act, perpetrated with knowledge of its character.

London, Oct. 26.—The inevitable delays of diplomatic procedure appear to retard a complete and satisfactory settlement of the acute difficulties between Great Britain and Russia arising from the deplorable North sea affair. King Edward has received from Emperor Nicholas himself a cablegram expressing the deepest regret and a practical acknowledgment that Great Britain's peremptory note will meet with a reply conceding every demand for apology for the act of aggression against the British flag, compensation for sufferers and punishment of the officers responsible for what is everywhere conceded to have been a gigantic blunder, and the Russian ambassador to the court of St. James has expressed to Foreign Minister Lansdowne his sorrow and sympathy. These developments have allayed to some extent the deep resentment in the public mind. The admiralty last night gave evidence of its appreciation of the necessity of proving that it is prepared to actively support the position of the people of Great Britain and fulfill the expectations of the world, when it issued the following statement:

"On receipt on Oct. 24 of the news of the North sea tragedy, preliminary orders for mutual support and co-operation were issued as a measure of precaution from the admiralty to the Channel, Mediterranean and home fleets."

While Great Britain is stirred to its depths, there has not been the slightest evidence of a repetition of the rowdism of Monday, when the Russian ambassador was hooted, which is condemned on all sides. Count Benckendorff himself referred to the incident as trivial, and did not appear to consider it worth notice. Popular appreciation of the situation, however, was evidenced when King Edward appeared in public yesterday. He was greeted with more than usual enthusiasm on account of the decided tone of his telegram to the mayor of Hull on Monday. The speeches of members of the cabinet and of the house of commons in different parts of the country voice the sentiment of Great Britain and the spirit in which the utterances were met shows that for the moment party differences have been laid aside and that the country is solidly behind the government. Lord Selborne, at the Pilgrims' banquet last night, denounced Dogger bank affairs in the most outspoken terms yet heard from a member of the cabinet as an "inexcusable outrage," and "a terrible blunder which would be impossible in either the British or the American navy." Colonial Secretary Lyttelton, too, in another place spoke in plain terms, saying that it was impossible to view the affair as other than the result of murderous intention or wicked negligence.

That a possibility of dangerous developments lurks in the protraction of the crisis is seen in the fact that Russian correspondents of British papers are beginning to send rather inflammatory dispatches. For example, the Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent says: "In military circles among the less responsible officers and in marine circles of almost all grades the conviction prevails that sooner or later war with England is inevitable and that the present is as auspicious as any other."

The Standard's Moscow correspondent also asserts that "the majority of the Russian people find more or less satisfaction in the insult offered to England."

A SINGULAR SILENCE Admiral Rojestvensky Hasn't Given an Account of Himself.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's reasons for firing into the British fishing fleet remain as great a mystery as ever. Again the admiralty announces that the admiral's report of the affair has not been received. Meantime, without awaiting the Russian version of the affair, Emperor Nicholas has sent to King Edward and the British government a message conveying an expression of the profoundest regret for the unfortunate affair, coupled with assurances that the families of the victims should receive the fullest reparation. The British government also shows moderation in the note which Sir Charles Hardinge presented to Foreign Minister Lansdowne. While it awaits explanation for an act which it characterizes in strong language as unjustifiable, deliberate and inhuman, it makes no threats, fixes no time limit for response and contains no demands, the note specifically stating that Great Britain's demands are reserved pending receipt of an explanation.

The willingness of Great Britain to await the Russian explanation before formulating demands shows consideration for the position in which Russia has been placed by a deplorable blunder. At the same time this consideration has an ominous ring about it, only serving to emphasize the gravity of the situation, the language of the note admitting of no doubt that when the demands are ultimately presented Great Britain intends to insist upon full compliance with them. From the diplomatic standpoint, the very fact that Great Britain has not shown her hand strengthens her position. What the nature of the demands will be must necessarily be a matter of speculation until Admiral Rojestvensky's report arrives, but if the important allegation in the note is established, namely, that the squadron actually changed formation before opening fire, it would seem to fix the responsibility upon Rojestvensky, and whoever the author of the offense may be, it is regarded as certain that Great Britain will demand, among other things, his punishment. It is also considered certain that failure to promptly comply with the demands will be immediately followed by Ambassador Hardinge's recall.

Although some nervousness is perceptible in diplomatic circles, generally speaking there is the greatest confidence both among diplomats and high officials of the government that the affair will be amicably adjusted. It is felt, indeed, that the very gravity of the situation may prove its salvation by imposing the utmost care and deliberation upon both sides. The emperor's action is regarded as an expression of his purpose to meet any reasonable demand of the British government and do everything possible to avoid cause of a quarrel.

Situation Exceedingly Delicate.

London, Oct. 26.—London papers display great impatience over the delay of the Russian government in according satisfaction for the Dogger bank affair. The emperor's communication, while it relieves the immediate tension, is held to be only a personal expression of regret and it is argued that unless the Russian government speedily follows suit a situation of the greatest danger will arise. Editorial articles demand that the Baltic squadron must be stopped in its irresponsible career, for otherwise there is no safety for the shipping of any nationality.

THIS ONE WORKED

An Airship That Really Goes Is Tried at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—Propelled part of the way by its own power and the remainder of the distance by the wind, which was blowing at the rate of about nine or ten miles an hour, the airship of Thomas S. Baldwin of San Francisco, in charge of A. Roy Knabenshue of Toledo, Ohio, made an unannounced ascension from the aeronautica concourse at the World's Fair and landed near Cahokia, Ill., a distance of nearly ten miles, after a flight that attracted the attention of thousands of persons who cheered almost continuously as the big flying machine passed over the exposition grounds, left the residence section of St. Louis far beneath it and soared high above the towering office buildings of the business district.

Clinging to the framework of the car, his precarious foothold a iron tube that forms one side of the base of the triangular network of supports and ribs of the airship's body, Knabenshue directed the movements of his flying machine and maneuvered in circles and against the wind, high over the monster exhibit palaces of the exposition, before the accident to his motor which rendered the big fan-like propellers useless and curtailed his command of the airship.

Notwithstanding the breaking of the motor, Knabenshue did not lose complete control of the machine, but with the momentum given by the wind he was enabled to steer the machine in a course that varied several points in each direction from the trend of the wind and land at a point of his own selecting.

PRICE OF VICTORY

Estimated That Japan Must Sacrifice 30,000 Lives at Port Arthur.

WONDERFUL DEFENSES

The Russian Stronghold Is Practically Impregnable to All Common Means of Assault.

Though the Garrison Is Small It Can Hold Against the Most Extraordinary Odds.

No fighting of any consequence by the Russians and Japanese armies in the vicinity of Shakhe has been reported. Emperor Nicholas has designated General Kuropatkin to command all the Russian land forces in the far East. Alexieff has been continued in the office of viceroy.

Victory Will Come High.

London, Oct. 26.—Under date of Oct. 22 the Port Arthur correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, describing the defenses of that place, says the Japanese will achieve a wonderful success if they can capture the fortress with a loss under 30,000 men, for the garrison, though worn down and few in numbers, can hold their strong defenses with no great casualties from the bombardment of the heaviest ordnance, and that the Japanese must sacrifice great numbers to gain even the advanced defenses, which are as strong as forts.

NEWS AT THE FRONT

Little Has Occurred to Change the General Situation.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—There is little change in the general military situation. The war office says there is no news of important movements on the Shakhe river, though a resumption of hostilities is possible at any time. The emperor's trip to say farewell to the troops in the province of Vilna has been delayed ten days on account of the Dogger bank incident. War news has taken an entirely secondary place in the face of the present complication. The sentiment in St. Petersburg is one of absolute stupefaction pending developments. General Kuropatkin's appointment to be commander-in-chief in the far East would have attracted much attention at any other time, but it arouses scant interest. It is an indication, however, of the emperor's unshaken confidence in Kuropatkin's ability. It is thought that General Meyendorff is the most likely candidate for the command of the first army, while General Gripenberg will command the second.

Kuropatkin's Elevation.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—A Harbin dispatch states that Viceroy Alexieff has published an imperial ukase appointing General Kuropatkin commander-in-chief of all the land forces in the East and retaining Alexieff in the post of viceroy. The emperor also congratulates Viceroy Alexieff on the efficiency he has displayed in the formation, concentration and supreme direction of troops in the theater of operations.

"New Thought" Thinkers.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—Nearly every state in the Union was represented in the assemblage of 400 delegates present at the opening session of the fourth annual New Thought convention held under the auspices of the New Thought Federation. Rev. R. Heber Newton of New York city, president of the federation, made the leading address on "The Significance of the New Thought Movement."

He Had to Confess.

Kansas City, Oct. 26.—C. D. Jewett, a clerk in a ticket brokers office in Union avenue, who reported to the police Monday night that two negroes had held him up and secured several hundred dollars from the safe, has confessed that he had taken the money and given it to his brother-in-law, H. D. Dillard. Both men, who are young, were held.

Returned to Stand Trial.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 26.—Albert C. Robbins, son of Albert Robbins, bankrupt Auburn banker, was arrested on two indictments charging him with conspiracy and with receiving deposits after knowing the bank was insolvent. He returned from California to stand trial. He gave a bond of $250 in each case.

Many Achinese Slain.

Amsterdam, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Batavia reports that the Dutch troops have captured Batoebatoe, in Achin, after sharp fighting. The Achinese, the dispatch says, lost 195 killed and the Dutch captured twenty guns and had three killed and eleven wounded.

Parents Were Absent.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 26.—During the absence from home of the parents, three small children of Jesse Evans, a farmer living near Corales, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the house.

Politics Was Eschewed.

New York, Oct. 26.—Judge Parker was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given by Edward S. Rapallo at the University club. The guests were all New York city lawyers. The dinner was entirely formal and politics was eschewed.

A Double Assassination.

Sparta, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Near Walling, in White county, yesterday, City Marshal L. H. Hambred and his eighteen-year-old son were shot from ambush and killed. Tom Chism is under arrest charged with the crime.

Long Drouth Broken.

Beaumont, Tex., Oct. 26.—There was a heavy fall of rain here and special dispatches show that rain has fallen in different sections of the state, which indicates that the long drouth has been broken.

FOR COMMISSIONER 2nd. DIST.

Robert D. Hayes was born at Columbus, Indiana, September 22, 1852. At the age of 18 he moved with his parents to a farm in Hamilton Township and has continued to be a resident of this county to the present time. He lived in the city of Seymour for four years, during which time he was engaged in the grocery business, and in 1890 removed to Cortland where he still resides. He was appointed postmaster at Cortland by President Harrison and again appointed by President McKinley and is most acceptably serving the people in that capacity at the present time. He is now and has been for several years local agent of the Southern Indiana Railway Company.

His experience on the farm and in mercantile affairs has given him an acquaintance with the needs of the people, and he has always been progressive and interested in the general welfare of his community.

He was the unanimous choice of the Republicans of the county for commissioner of the Second district, accepted the nomination and has been making a quiet but most effective campaign for election. He is scrupulously honest, sober and industrious, and his extensive experience in business has specially qualified him for the discharge of such duties as belong to the office of Commissioner. There is no office of more importance than this to the local taxpayers, to be filled at the approaching election.

It is currently believed that he will be elected, and if so, no one need fear that any job will corruptly secure his approval; nor will any contract be let at an exorbitant and extravagant price under the excuse of ignorance.

FOR TREASURER.

James W. Cunningham, candidate for county treasurer, has been a resident of Jackson county for sixteen years and has a wide acquaintance over the county. For ten years he was a successful teacher in the public schools after which he turned his attention to the timber business. After the panic he purchased a sawmill and since that time he has been a successful lumber dealer. He now has three mills in operation. One of these is located at Brownstown and is known as the Brownstown Plow Beam and Lumber Company. In his business he gives employment to quite a number of men and teams. Mr. Cunningham is a very generous man and has never failed to give liberally in the building of churches over the county and to donate freely to enterprises for the public good. He has a host of friends wherever he is known and always has a good word and a pleasant greeting for those whom he meets. He is a member in good standing in the K. of P. and I. O. O. F. He is a man of strict integrity and will make a thoroughly efficient county treasurer. While he has to have 500 democrat votes to secure his election he feels confident his friends will consider it a business proposition, rather than a political one, and no doubt if elected will be the best all around up-to-date man that has ever held this office.

W. H. Voyles, of Salem, was here last night trying to convince the friends of O. O. Swalls, who were run over by him and the Taggart machine that they ought to vote for him.

The people who have had to travel over the gravel road from the Rockford bridge to Youtsey hill the past summer have already been convinced that there was too much delay in beginning repairs. A change of administration is what is needed in this county.

Political Gossip.

Hon. Gus Condo, of Marion, arrived this morning and went to Vallonia, where he speaks tonight, Friday night he speaks in the Republican clubroom in this city. He is a good speaker being an orator of splendid ability. Remember the date and hear him.

Arthur McCart, of Paoli, prosecuting attorney, arrived here this morning and will spend a few days in this county.

John M. Lewis and J. A. Cox spoke to a crowded house at Houston Tuesday night. They are having excellent meetings every place they go and they are making splendid speeches to the people. Wednesday night they speak at Freetown.

The people who travel the Newry gravel road are wondering how long they will be compelled to go around through the woods over a trail that is almost impassable, awaiting a bridge over the Mutton creek ditch. The county commissioner of this district does not seem to take the interests of the people into account.

The farmers do not want to experience such times as they experienced from 1893 to 1897 when the Democrats had charge of affairs. They have prospered the past eight years. They will not take chances on another "tariff reform" administration. They will consider their own interests and vote for Roosevelt.

The Jackson county Democratic press has been endeavoring to explain some figures relative to county expenses recently submitted by the REPUBLICAN. While they are at it will these papers please explain to the taxpayers that Rockford bridge painting deal? What excuse do they give for that costing the county over $1000? Will they also explain the necessity of collecting from the taxpayers in 1903, $43,502.51 more than was needed to run the affairs of the county? Where is this big balance belonging to the people? Is the county getting any interest on it? Who is profiting by it? The taxpayers are not. Will they explain, too, why the county attorney's salary and the legal expenses of the county in 1903 when Carl Wood, who is running for senator on his record, was county attorney, amounted to about 60 per cent more than the same cost in either Bartholomew or Lawrence counties and four times as much as in Jennings county. And while they are explaining they might tell how the county recorder in 1903 earned $83.62 more than his stipulated salary. When these things are satisfactorily explained to the taxpayers other official figures will be given and explanation asked for.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONY

Independent Coal Operator Shows How He Was Ruined.

New York, Oct. 26.—John C. Haddock, an independent coal mine owner and operator, testifying before the Interstate Commerce commission in the case of William Randolph Hearst against the coal-carrying roads, said that as a result of tariff discrimination, his company suffered a loss of more than $800,000 in less than eight years. This loss meant the difference between solvency and insolvency, and his company, which at one time had a reputation of high standing which he jealously guarded, as a result of the alleged discrimination, is now in the hands of trustees. Mr. Haddock said that he had persistently complained to the management of the Lackawanna company and had been met by the proposition that he turn his property over to the railroad. This he had declined to do. In the end there was a compromise by which he received $150,000 from the Lackawanna company in settlement of his claim for $800,000. Mr. Haddock also said that the Lackawanna company would not furnish a sufficient number of cars to take the output of his mines during the anthracite coal strike; and that they caused to be removed spur tracks into the yards of dealers in Norwich and Cortland, N. Y., who purchased coal from his company.

Obituary.

James O. Scott, son of John W. and Martha Ann Scott, was born in Belmont county, Ohio, Aug. 25, 1832.

He came to the state of Indiana in November 1866. Was united in marriage to Clarissa J. Evans June 8, 1865. To them were born ten children, five boys and five girls, three of whom, two girls and one boy, have preceded him to the beautiful beyond.
He was a member of the Christian church. Expressing his sentiments, he did not fear death but welcomed it as a loving guest.

He was a soldier of the civil war, belonging to Co. F, Fifteenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Serving from 1861 until his discharge in 1865.
He passed peacefully to rest October 19, 1904.

He was 72 years, 1 month and 24 days old at the time of his death.
He leaves a wife, four sons, three daughters, six grandchildren, relatives, comrades and a host of friends were laid to rest in the Sutherland cemetery.

Reversed Again.

The appellate court has reversed the Jackson circuit court in the case of John Q. Foster against Chas. Leniger in which it is alleged that the defendant declined to carry out an agreement to furnish telephone service to plaintiff. The court holds:

(1) An allegation of performance by plaintiff is not necessary in a complaint for damages for breach of a contract which alleges that the defendant repudiated the contract and refused to perform it. (2) Upon breach of a contract made with one person for the benefit of another, the beneficiary may maintain an action upon for such breach and beginning such a suit is sufficient of the offered benefit.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contains Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should not be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh and is taken internally, acting directly

One Half of the People

this world don't know how the other half live, and a great part of them don't see well enough to appreciate the beauties that others with good eyes enjoy. Principally because they blink, they see well, while in reality they have not more than half normal vision. People who are unfortunate enough to have painful vision giving forth supreme effort to see, are even-worse off than those who see poorly, because that effort brings serious results.

There is no occasion in these days to suffer from defective eyesight, or the effort to see. We can put troubles of this kind behind us. This is our specialty and we know it as an open book, which is combined with a conscientious determination, to do the work just right, hence our guarantee, if you are not satisfied your money back. Free Examination.
